

PRESIDENT POLLOCK NAMES COMMITTEES FOR ENSUING YEAR

New Village Council Has Harmonious Meeting
Tuesday night

The village board met Tuesday evening for the first regular session since the election two weeks ago, and named appointive officers and committees for the year.

The board was reorganized under the presidency of S. E. Pollock who succeeded Geo. B. Bartlett. Newly elected members were Dr. G. W. Jensen, who took the seat formerly held by Jacob Drom, and H. J. Vos who filled the unexpired term caused by the resignation of S. E. Pollock.

The following committees were named by President Pollock and confirmed by the board:

Lights and Lighting—Jensen, Vos and Murre.

Finance—Vos, Dunn, Hawkins.

Street and Alley—Dunn, Jensen, Shultz.

Health—Shultz, Murre, Jensen.

Auditing—Hawkins, Dunn, Vos.

By agreement of the board it was decided to reduce the number of people on the Board of Local Improvements from the entire membership of the village board to three members.

Accordingly President Pollock, who is, by virtue of his office, chairman of the board, named H. J. Vos and R. L. Murre as his associates and their appointment was confirmed by the board.

Eugene Runyard of Waukegan was re-appointed as Village Attorney; Simon Simonsen as Marshal; Dr. H. F. Beebe as Health Officer, and Simon Simonsen as Tapper.

Building Ordinance

Plans were instituted to create a committee, to be composed of a committee from the village board, a committee from the fire department, and the village attorney for the purpose of drafting a building permit ordinance for the approval of the board.

The appointment of a motorcycle policeman was discussed and the street and alley committee were requested to devise regulations for parking and make plans, immediately if possible, for additional parking space off the main street of the village.

Consider Daylight Saving

The proposition to adopt the daylight saving time was brought to the attention of the board by Eugene Wilton and Frank Hamlin, representing a committee from the Lake Villa council. Residents of the village to the south are said to look upon the plan with favor and are anxious to adopt it if Antioch will do so. In Antioch the matter is being left to the members of the street and alley committee who will circulate a petition to ascertain the sentiment regarding the time change.

The meeting was recessed until next Monday night.

Board Votes to Pay Naber $1000

Supervisor Barney F. Naber is to receive damage in the sum of $1000 from the village for right of way for route No. 59 from the village limits to the Lake street intersection, according to action of the village council members convened in an adjourned meeting last Friday night to complete the unfinished business of last year's Board. The one thousand dollars, which the board unanimously agreed to pay Mr. Naber, is to come from the village general taxes and he is to receive $500 in 1927 and a like amount in 1928.

Mr. Naber is to be paid another $1000 by Antioch township for right of way for route No. 59 across his land outside the village limits. Payment is to be made to Mr. Naber from the road and bridge fund of the township, and any balance remaining after the first year is to draw interest.

Complications regarding the business transacted at this meeting of the village board may arise, it is rumored, because of the fact that two of the recently elected trustees had qualified for office prior to the meeting Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hillebrand have recently returned from a winter spent in Roseland, Florida.

Antioch Store Looters Nabbed at Lake Forest Early This Morning

Williams Brothers Will Recover $4,000.00 Loot Stolen
This Morning

Yeggs who robbed Williams Bros. store of $4,000 worth of goods were in the hands of Lake Forest police this morning before the robbery was discovered. The two men who committed the robbery were picked up for speeding at 4 a. m. this morning on the Waukegan-Chicago road at Lake Forest by plain clothes men.

They offered no resistance to the officers who drove up beside them in a Ford Sedan and, stopping them, discovered that they had their car loaded with loot. Upon being questioned they readily admitted that they had stolen it at Antioch. When they were taken to the police station, they made an effort to escape, officers finally overpowering one with a police club and flooring the other. Later when Sheriff Doolittle arrived they attempted to steal his car and make a getaway.

One of the men gave his name as Faust and admitted that he had worked here for John Dupre three years ago. His companion admitted having served a three year term in the state prison in Missouri. Both admitted similar thefts in other places, and the goods in their possession when they were arrested included other articles than those stolen from the Williams Brothers store.

Identify Stolen Goods

Lake Forest police communicated at once with Simon Simonsen, the village marshal, and L. VanPatten, Russell Harustable and Miss Mabel Brogan went to Lake Forest and identified the stolen goods.

The robbers were taken to Waukegan this morning where charges of robbery were placed against them, and they were then taken back to Lake Forest. From there they will be taken to Chicago, for examination by the police in connection with similar robberies in and around Chicago.

Evidence was that last night's robbery entered through a basement window fronting on the street, went from there through the cellar into the main part of the store and opened the back doors into the alley. They made no effort to conceal traces of their operations. From the amount of stuff taken it was evident that they had backed up either a truck or a large car to the back door.

RED CROSS SEEKS HELP FOR VICTIMS OF FLOODED AREA

Antioch and Vicinity Asked to Aid in Reaching Quota of $4,000

As flood waters in the lower south continued to rise and make additional districts homeless and in immediate danger of their lives, the American Red Cross under the leadership of Secretary of Commerce Hoover and the Red Cross National Chairman, Monday sent out a new appeal for aid. The quota of Lake county previously set at $2,000 was doubled and the county is now asked to raise $4,000 for its share for the relief of the sufferers. Workers in the area, after making a survey, and in consideration of the last increase of flood area, estimated that the least amount that could meet the flood situation as it now exists would be $10,000,000. Of this sum, Lake County is asked for $4,000.

Tuesday the following telegram was received at county headquarters:

May 1, 1927
St. Louis, Mo.

Manuel Talcott

County Red Cross Chairman

Upon recommendation of Secretary of Commerce Hoover and National Chairman of the Red Cross, following the completion of a survey in the disaster area, the Red Cross Central Committee decided in view of the last increase of flood area that the emergency situation now demands a minimum of $10,000,000. This doubles the original quota of $2,000 already assigned your chapter. Continue your efforts to secure as large an amount as possible and extend the appeal to all communities in your chapter's jurisdiction. Confident we can depend on your loyal and devoted efforts in this crisis.

Signed,

WM. BAXTER, JR.

Vice Chairman, Mid Western Area

Red Cross, St. Louis, Mo.

In the absence of a local Red Cross organization, the News will receive contributions from any one, who wishes to give and will forward the funds to the Red Cross for use among the stricken people of the flood region. Mark your contribution "Flood Relief Fund" and bring or mail it to the News office.

May 3, 1927

Editor,

Antioch News,
Antioch, Illinois.

My dear Sir:

I wish to confirm my telephone conversation today with your office in which I authorized you to solicit and accept donations for the American Red Cross Mississippi River Relief Fund.

It would be useless for me to attempt to tell you of the urgent need for immediate response to aid the sufferers and homeless in this stricken area as you and the people of your community are well aware of this. You are in receipt of a copy of the telegram which I received from National Headquarters in which you will note that the quota for our territory has been increased from $2000 to $4000. We have only received $1500 to date and must now put on a strenuous campaign to raise the balance.

Antioch people have always responded to appeals in the past and I feel sure that they will do so at this crisis.

With best wishes for your success

I am

Very truly yours,

M. TALCOTT,

Chairman.

NEWS NOTES FROM NEIGHBORING TOWNS

Saturday, April 30, was boys day in the city of Kenosha. The Boy Scouts took over the municipal government from the city council and the city manager down through all of the departments at the city hall and every municipal institution operated by the city. The city council was the supreme body and named the city manager, who selected the officers to serve for the day under him.

The board of supervisors of McHenry county selected John Conley, veteran county board member from Huntley, as their chairman.

The plan and business of the Citizens Gas company of Burlington passed into the hands of the Wisconsin Southern Gas Co., a new corporation, on Monday, May 2. The company originally held franchises to construct and operate plants from the city of Lake Geneva and several nearby villages and cities. However the purchase of the Burlington property will cause a change in the original plan, and it is intended that the Burlington plant will be enlarged and used as a central plant in the distribution of gas throughout the region. The present manager, E. F. Rukow, will be retained by the new company.

Kenosha county awarded the contract recently for the paving of Wisconsin highway 83 from Brass Hall Corners to the existing pavement on that road. On this stretch of three and one quarter miles a pavement twenty feet wide will be laid. The Breunau-Boussett company of Kenosha were the successful bidders and will begin work this month.

High School To Stage First Musical Festival In History of Village

On May 13, the High School will give their first Musical Festival. In the past the school has given an opera each year, but it is believed that a much better type of music can be presented in the musical festival than in an opera, and that the students will derive more benefit from the festival. Numbers sung in the state contest at Normal will be repeated at the program next week.

On May 17th, Antioch will take a 30 minute program to Libertyville as part of a Music Festival given by the high schools of Libertyville, Gurnee, Waukegan, and Antioch.

The two concerts are given in the interests of the development of good music and it is hoped that parents and friends will lend their aid by attending these two festivals. The proceeds thus realized will be used to pay the expenses of the Normal trip and it is hoped that there will be enough left to buy music for the classes next year.

AMERICAN LEGION TO SPONSOR DANCE

Antioch Post of the American Legion are to sponsor a dance at the Antioch Palace next Wednesday evening, May 11. The Moonlight Serenaders will furnish the music. The Serenaders are from Indiana where they have gained fame the past season in all the finest ball rooms in the state.

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL SENDS MUSICIANS TO STATE CONTEST

Will Compete for First Honors With Pick of State

Antioch High School Music and Public Speaking contestants will leave tomorrow to represent the district at the state contest. The honor comes to the local school by virtue of their victory in the district contest held at Elgin some time ago.

There will be four organizations entered: Boys Glee Club, Girls Glee Club, Chorus and Orchestra. As soloists, Louise Simons, Soprano; Virginia Hachmelter, contralto; and Homer Tiffany, baritone, will compete. In the public speaking contests Lilah Hawkins will give an oration.

About fifty people will make the trip, part of the number going by North Shore bus and the rest in private cars. Representatives from all parts of the state will be there and the local contestants will meet with keen competition. However, they have made a very good showing in the past and it is hoped that they may bring home honors from the state.

The first and fifth innings proved to be the disastrous ones, the West Siders scoring five and six hits respectively in these two periods. The weak spot in the home aggregation proved to be the mound, the West Siders banging out a total of 14 hits, while the locals were able to connect with the ball for earned hits but twice.

Results from the other scheduled games of the day showed a similar result with the exception of the game between Cosover Boosters and Avon which was abandoned at dusk with the score standing at 4 to 4.

Next Sunday the Antioch team will play Renehan at Round Lake.

CHAPTER XIII

When they carried Stokes to his room they thought him dying, so ghastly was his appearance, so death like his collapse. Bassett telephoned to Hayworth for a doctor and before the man came Flora, singularly cold and collected now the fight was over, told them her husband was a morphine addict and showed them the case in his bag with the empty vial. In the two days' detention on the island his supply had been exhausted, the greatest strain of the many that had ended in his frantic confession.

In the excitement of the Stokes sensation the men had forgotten all about the picture and now, walking down the hall, they swung back to it. Bassett and Williams were baffled and confounded by it: it was one of the most startling of the whole chain of startling circumstances. Rawson was neither baffled nor confounded, having already arrived at a solution: Shine had played a trick, done it on purpose to see if it might not accomplish just what it had accomplished. He was loud in his praise of the photographer. It was a clever ruse that had brought things to a climax when they might have gone on bungling for days. Rawson was willing to admit his mistakes—he'd been sure of the boy and now it appeared that Bassett and Miss Tracy were right. Joe Tracy had evidently lit out secretly on some business of his own.

He dismissed the company with a curt command and as they made their hurried exits, jocularly congratulated Shine as the man who had pulled off a successful hoax. But the photographer looked rather shamefaced and denied the charge. He'd meant to take a picture, no funny business or fooling about it—but he rubbed his hand over his tangled hair and grinned sheepishly. He was sleepy, that's what had been the matter, just plain dozed with sleep so he didn't know what he was doing.

"Well, how do you account for the picture?" said Rawson. "Are you one of those people who can take spirit photographs?"

"There was only one way of accounting for it. He didn't open the shutter and the picture was one of those he had taken of Miss Saunders the day of his arrival.

"You'd taken her like that—coming through the doorway?"

He'd taken two or three like that—he couldn't be sure how many. But he did remember posing her at both the front and rear entrances of the living room, trying to get effects of a dark background with her figure dimly suggested and the light on her face. It was evidently one of those pictures, must have been the last one he'd done but he couldn't trust his memory on any small points. He'd been more shocked than he had any idea of, but he knew it now.

So that was that! Nobody's brains, nobody's deductive powers, or perspicacity or psychological insight had brought them to the goal. The bungling of a sleepy man had done the trick.

They were talking it over when the sound of Flora's voice stopped them. She was standing in the doorway, very white and very calm. Stokes was asking for them. Yes, she nodded in answer to Rawson's look, he was quite himself. The doctor had wanted him to wait till he was stronger, but he had insisted:

"He says he must speak now while his mind is clear. He seems to know it won't last and he can't rest till he's told everything."

They found him bolstered up in bed, a haggard spectacle, his eyes, sunk in darkened hollows, seemed to hold all the life left in his body. They hung on the entering men, then swerved to his wife and he made a motion for her to sit beside him.

"I'm glad you've come," he whispered. "Glad it's over. If I'm going on now it can't be to anything worse than this last thirty-six hours."

The desire to free his mind possessed him. Rest, he said, rest was all he wanted and it was not for him till he had unloaded the intolerable burden he had carried since Sybil Saunders' death.

He had never intended to kill her—that was the one point of exculpation he insisted on. His love had made him mad, carried him beyond the inhibiting forces of honor, feeling, reason. That it was hopeless seemed to increase his obsessing power, and she had never for one moment led him to think it was anything but hopeless. Unwaveringly, from the first, her attitude had been dislike, aversion, a horror of his state of mind and himself.

His knowledge of the coming separation had been the igniting motive that caused the inner explosion. After their stay on the island she would go her way, keep her whereabouts hidden from him, and he might never see her again. The thought became unbearable, and led him to a resolution of wild desperation—he would get her alone, once more confess his passion, and if she met it with the old scorn and abhorrence, kill himself before her eyes. He had seen the revolver in the drawer of the desk and on the day of the performance taken it. To prevent upon her to grant him the interview was the problem, and the evil inspiration came to him to tell her he had news of Dallas, her lover. It was a lie; he knew nothing of the man, but truth, decency, self-respect no longer existed for him.

He described the interview in the living room, her roused interest and demand for the information. The intrusion of his wife worked with his plan and he had insisted on a rendezvous where they would be free from interruption. They started for the summer house on the Point, saw Shine there, and made the arrangement to meet in the place at seven. Then she had gone upstairs to her room and he to the balcony to wait for her.

When he saw her pass the balcony he had risen and followed her. She had moved rapidly, not waiting for him, and he had not tried to catch up with her as he knew she did not want anyone to see them together. When he entered the summer house she was sitting on the bench close to the table, on which her elbows rested. His hysterical state, accelerated during the long wait, had reached a climax of distraction and he burst into a stream of words—he had lied to her, he knew nothing, but he had to see her, he had lured her there for a last interview, a final clearing up, and he drew out the pistol. The sight of it, his mad babble of disconnected sentences, evidently terrified her. She leaped to her feet and made a rush like a frightened animal for the opening. Before he could speak or catch her she had brushed past him and fled from the place.

Then something had gone wrong in his head—he couldn't explain—a breaking of some pressure, a stoppage of all mental processes. In the vacuum one fact stayed—that she had got away from him and he never would see her again. A blind fury seized him and he shot at her as she ran. She was at the summit of the cliff, staggered, threw up her arms and went over. When he saw her body lurch and topple forward the darkness lifted from his brain. He came back to himself as if from a period of unconsciousness and realized what he had done.

He described his state as curiously lucid and far-seeing. The insane outbreak seemed to have freed his intelligence and temporarily suspended the torment of his nerves. The situation presented itself with a vision-like clarity and all the forces of his mind and will sprang into action, combining to achieve his safety. From the shadow of the vines he looked at the house, saw Bassett come to the living-room entrance, glance about and go back. The sound of the shot had evidently roused no forebodings and when no face appeared at window or door, he ran to the pine grove. There he was safe and slipped unobserved to the balcony. He waited here for a moment to get his breath and compose his manner. He was the actor, playing a difficult part with a high-keyed, heady confidence when he entered the room.

His wife—that had been the unforeseen retribution. He had not realized that suspicion would turn on her, and then saw that it might, saw that it did. His hell began when he grasped the danger she was in. Listened to Raw-son's questions on the night of their arrival, sensed Williams' line of thought when the scene was rehearsed on the shore. He had tried to turn them to Joe Tracy, smothering at anything to gain time, but he would have told, he was ready to tell. He kept reiterating the words, his burning eyes moving from one face to the other—he had broken her heart, ruined her life, but he was not so utterly lost as that.

It was her reassurances that quieted him. She had known from the first he would tell as he had known from the first he had done it. He relaxed and sank back, his eyes closing, and the doctor motioned them to go. Flora followed them to the door and held them there a moment to repeat what she had said—as if, like him, wanting to rid her mind of all its secret agony. It wasn't surprise; she had seen him. When she had turned from the water after her attempt to catch the body she had had a clear view of him stealing through the pine wood, moving noiselessly and watching the house.

"He never knew it," she said. "That night when you, Mr. Williams, nearly caught me on the stairs, I was going to see him, say I knew what he'd done and that I'd help him and lie for him and stand by him. Oh, yes—I don't care what I tell now. He was my husband, I'd loved him and he'd been cursed—cursed and destroyed."

The men closed the door softly as upon the dead. What they had heard and left behind them had taken the zest from their accomplishment and in the glow of the hall lights their faces looked drawn and hollowed with fatigue. Rawson drew out his watch—half past two. The best thing they could do was to get a little sleep, and stepping gently, as he'd been a place where so dark a doom had fallen, he and Williams passed into the library.

Sleep was far from Bassett. He would like to have seen Anne, but it would have been inhuman to rouse her, and he went toward the living room where he could think in quiet. He dropped into a chair, his breath expelled with a groaning note, then heard Anne's voice from the gallery above:

"I've been waiting for you. May I come down?"

There she was, dressed, leaning against the railing.

"Come," he beckoned, his heart expanding, his depression lightened, and as she disappeared he pulled up a chair for her. She came in, soft-footed across the rugs, with the whispering words:

"I couldn't rest till I'd seen you and heard. He's told?"

"Everything." They sat, facing each other, close together. "It's solved and ended—the Gill Island murder."

"Is it all right for you to tell me?"

It was all right and he told her.

"So, as it turns out, Anne dearest, all that misery you and I went through was unnecessary."

"Yes," she said slowly. "It wasn't Joe, he wasn't in it at all. But I don't understand. I've been sitting in my room while you were with Stokes thinking about it and I can't make it out. Hugh"—she leaned forward and rested her hand on his knee, dropping her voice though no one was there to hear—"this is what I can't explain—who did I see in here last night?"

Bassett's answer was prompt, delivered in the brisk tone of common sense:

"I can. It's very simple. You didn't see anybody."

"You think I imagined it?"

"I know you did. Just consider: You were in a wrought-up condition, you expected to see him, came down for that purpose. The room was almost dark, quiet dark under the gallery where you say he came from. After what you'd gone through—first a murder, then a suspicion that would have undermined the strongest nerves—you were in a state to see anything."

She continued to stare at the light, her face set in troubled thought.

"I suppose that could be."

"Why, Anne dear, it must have been, it could have happened to anyone. And there's another point—if it had been Joe, wouldn't he have spoken to you, one question even to find out what was going on, what we were doing?"

"Yes, yes, I've thought of that. It didn't occur to me at the time. But he would have said something."

"Of course he would. You never saw anything more substantial than a shadow in the moonlight."

She was silent for a moment then said:

"Well, where is Joe? What's he doing?"

"Gone off on some business of his own. You were telling the truth when you told Rawson and Williams that Joe's actions weren't always calculable, weren't you?" He saw her answering nod. "Well, he's evidently chosen the occasion of his leaving the island to light out in some new direction. You can't tell what may have been in his head—a joke on Jimmy Travers, on us, any sort of lark or tomfoolery. We'll find it all out soon."

"Come," he said, rising and drawing her to her feet. "There's no good bothering about that any more. Leave it to me and when we've got through the rest of this horrible business I'll look around for him. And anyway, he'll see it in the papers, and if he wants to show up, he'll do it himself within the next few days. Now you must go to bed and let your poor tired brain rest."

They walked to the door and there he caught her against his breast and led into her face:

"It's all over—that fighting and

What Shape Face?

If your profile is concave, says Popular Science Monthly, you are likely to be a slow but determined thinker. If it is convex, sloping either way from the tip of the nose, your thinking is apt to be quick, but indecisive. But if a line drawn from the forehead to the chin indicates a plane profile, you are both quick and steady. You combine the best qualities of the other two.

TAME CHEETAH CHEWS COP'S LEG

Owner's Dissertation on Habit Not Convincing.

Chicago.—Half grown African cheetahs are all right in their place. But their place is out in a jungle with the other beasts or behind the bars of a good strong circus wagon, not in Lake Shore drive apartments.

No declares no less an authority than Brevet Sergeant Wellington W. Britton, well known author and zoological expert of the Chicago police department. He feels that the marks of a cheetah's teeth on one of his legs qualify him as an expert.

The pair of cheetahs is owned by Mrs. John Wentworth, 1240 Lake Shore drive, and the council ordered the police to see if they are "a menace to public safety."

Twice the Wentworths had refused him admittance, but finally Mr. Wentworth, called from his office, let him in. Percy and Nellie—the two cheetahs—lying on a white-sheeted couch, looked up at him languidly. It was about supper time.

"Come over and pet them," Mr. Wentworth invited.

"No, thank you," Britton replied. "All I want between them and me is distance."

Mr. Wentworth then started to read to his visitor from a nature book, stating that cheetahs are gentle, harmless pets.

"Why, these cheetahs will eat right out of your hand," he said. Just then Percy jumped down, walked up behind Britton, and took a nip at his leg.

"Yes," shouted the policeman, "may be they'll eat out of your hand, but they'll eat out of my leg, too!" Then, turning on Percy, "Sent!" he ordered. But Percy didn't sent. He started to take another bite and the sergeant pulled out his revolver.

"Don't shoot Percy," entreated the owner. "He won't hurt you. Let me feed you some more. It says here: 'They can be trained to hunt rabbits.'"

"Worse and worse," commented the detective. "They're neurotized as well. He mistook me for a rare bit."

"He smells the odor of a dog," explained Mr. Wentworth, starting to feed some more.

At the detective bureau Britton wrote a classic bit on cheetahs, the erstwhile royal hunting leopards of Persian kings.

"Mr. Wentworth showed me a book that said they would not attack a man, but one bit my leg," Britton wrote.

4 Twin Boys Beat 2 of Girls Until Triplets—

New York.—Tailors rejoiced at an early hour when they heard that two sets of boy twins and one set of girl twins had been born at the Staten Island hospital, New Brighton, up to 3:50 a. m. But dress merchants and fashion artists smiled triumphantly when Mrs. Ralph Mignone, wife of a stonemason of West Orange, N. J., added three girls to the future dress customers of this country.

Mr. and Mrs. Mignone have ten children ranging in age up to thirteen years and live at West Orange, N. J.

Mrs. Phillip Zulla of Port Richmond, became the mother of two boys at 1:55 o'clock in the afternoon. At 3:12 in the morning, two girls were borne by Mrs. Peter Johnson of West New Brighton, and at 3:50 a. m., two boys were borne by Mrs. David Landon of West New Brighton.

To See Christy Brothers Big Animal Show This Year. It Is All New

It will be an event long to be remembered when Christy Bros. Big Five Ring Wild Animal show exhibits in Waukegan, Ill., on Friday, May 6, for one day only, giving two shows, one in the afternoon at two o'clock and one at night at eight o'clock. Never in the history of tented exhibitions has such a varied collection of wild animals, marvelously educated trained horses, ponies, sheep, chickens, ducks, rabbits, goats and other animals been seen in highly interesting performances. Christy's is a clean and refined show and this season it has eclipsed all records to carry still further their standard of excellence in every department.

The Wichita Eagle in a recent issue referring to the Christy Bros. shows says the following:

"The Christy Bros. big wild animal shows gave two performances here Monday to a crowded tent. The street parade that passed through the business section about noon was the first circus parade seen in Wichita in four years and was viewed by a large crowd. The Christy show features its wild and domestic animals."

UNSEASONABLE WEATHER HINDERS SPRING WORK

Farm operations of every sort have been retarded in this vicinity by an unusually cool spring and daily showers. Thursday and Friday nights of last week saw frost but the slowness of the season prevented the frost from doing much damage to fruits and berries.

There have been daily showers for the past two weeks and some of them have been more than mere showers. All of the low places have been flooded, with drainage ditches and brooks working at capacity and it has been almost impossible for the farmers to do plowing and other outside work.

Only about half of the oats hereabouts have been planted and many farmers have not yet been able to get their plowing done. However the last few days have been fair ones and the weather appears to be taking on a more favorable aspect.

McHenry has recently organized a Rifle Club which will be affiliated with the National Rifle association of America. This latter organization is sponsored by the United States government for the encouragement of organized small arms practice among the citizens of the United States, both as a sport and as a means of national defense.

The government issues to the club the necessary rifle and miscellaneous targets, target cloths etc., also the ammunition. The Martin Huber farm located a few miles out of McHenry in the vicinity of Lake DuSance has been leased for a period of three years as a rifle range.

High water conditions along the Mississippi river and its tributary streams south of St. Louis remain unchanged, according to the touring bureau of the Chicago Motor club. Routes to the south and southwest closed to travel through this area, and there is no possible chance to get through over them. Pavement and heavily graveled highways through Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, southeastern Wisconsin and southern Michigan generally in good condition for travel; all other sections of the north central states inadvisable for travel.

They are a famous aggregation of musicians, have played at university proms throughout the south and at all of the leading ball rooms in Illinois.

Of this orchestra Paul Whiteman, the premier jazz orchestra leader of the country said, "They are the greatest Collegian orchestra in the United States."

Nearby Notes

The Chicago North Shore and Milwaukee Railroad company has taken steps whereby it is endeavoring to increase its fare on all of its lines in Illinois from the present rate of 3 cents per mile to 3.5 cents per mile. The three cents per mile was authorized by an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission entered June 14, 1921.

Anton Lowres, farm hand on the Anton Globis farm, near Twin Lakes, is in the Kenosha hospital in a serious condition as the result of being gored by a bull on the farm Tuesday evening of last week.

Legislative moves for the establishment of a state fish hatchery somewhere in Kenosha, Racine or Walworth counties to provide a fish supply for restocking the numerous inland lakes of those three counties from time to time, reached the half way mark in the state legislature at Madison last week when the assembly passed the bill. It now goes to the senate.

Union Grove, Racine county, and in fact all of Wisconsin are watching with interest the fight being waged at Union Grove over Sunday baseball. A capacity crowd is assured at the opening game May 5, when John Martin, 75-year-old village president, has promised to arrest everyone participating in the sport.

Grayslake has invested in a new pump apparatus for their fire department. The truck is powered with a 70-horse power motor and is capable of doing 50 miles an hour on the road. The pump has a capacity of 500 gallons per minute and throws a 2-inch stream of water to the height of 100 feet.

ILLINOIS BUYS GAME AND FISH PRESERVE

Nine thousand acres of Illinois River bottomland were saved for the sportsmen of Illinois by the purchase recently of a game preserve and public hunting and fishing grounds in Woodford county, across the Illinois from Peoria.

Deeds conveying seventeen hundred acres of land and water to the State of Illinois were accepted here by Governor Small and William J. Stratton, Director of the Department of Conservation.

The purchase of this preserve and shooting and fishing grounds located in the heart of the Rome View Drainage and Levee District caused the dissolution of the district. According to Director Stratton there can be no reorganization of this district, so that the amount of hunting and fishing grounds actually saved for the people of Illinois by this purchase is close to nine thousand acres.

The move to have the state buy this preserve was started shortly after the 1925 session of the General Assembly. Endorsed by sportsmen's organizations and with the active support of members of the Legislature from that and adjoining districts, this is one of the outstanding achievements of the Department of Conservation.

Among the leaders who appeared before Governor Small and Director Stratton to urge the establishment of this preserve were Senators S. E. Janis of Congerville, Ben L. Smith of Pekin, John Dalley of Peoria, and Representatives Robert Scholes and David McCluggage of Peoria, Chas. M. Turner of Wenona and Martin B. Lohmann of Pekin.

The establishment of forest, game and fish preserves and public hunting and fishing grounds is one of the important phases of the game and fish restoration program now being carried out by Governor Small and Director Stratton of the Department of Conservation.

Why Firestone Dealers

Serve You Better and Save You Money

WE know tires—how to select the best—how to help you take care of them, and get the most out of them. We sell Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires and Tubes—also Oldfield Tires and Tubes.

Both Firestone and Oldfield Tires are scientifically designed and manufactured by The Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. Mr. Harvey S. Firestone is President and active head of the Company and under his management many outstanding developments and improvements for economy, safety and comfort in tires have been made. He is the acknowledged leader in lowering tire costs and fought almost a lone battle to secure lower crude rubber prices from a foreign monopoly. He has saved, and is saving, millions of dollars every year for car owners.

Through the Firestone policy of selling and distributing direct to dealers through 148 Factory Branches and Warehouses, we receive fresh, clean stocks of tires of the highest quality at prices which are the lowest in the history of the industry, and we pass these advantages in quality and low price on to our customers.

Nash 7-bearing crankshaft takes longer to build—costs more

It takes longer to build a 7-bearing motor than it does to build one with only 3 or 4 main bearings.

There are at least 3 more bearings to hone and polish. (Nash has considerably more bearing surface than other six-cylinder motors in the Nash price field with 4-bearing crankshafts.)

There are at least 3 more bearings to align. And there are at least 3 more bearings to check for proper clearances.

But the Nash 7-bearing crankshaft eliminates the "whip" which loosens bearings and piles up expensive shopwork on motors with fewer crankshaft bearings.

Obviously, it costs more in time and money to build the Nash 7-bearing crankshaft.

Why then does Nash build it, when other manufacturers still use engines with fewer bearings?

The answer is that Nash owners have come to expect Nash to be definitely better than any other car they could buy at the Nash price.

And 7 bearings alone produce superlative power-smoothness and power-quietness.

Before you select your new motor car, drive a Nash and see how smooth it is at high speeds, how powerful and effortless its pick-up at every speed.

bought a farm in the township of Randall and in February 1877 he was united in marriage to Wilhelmina Hasselman of Wilmot, who survives him with their two daughters Mrs. Jacob C. Kronsche of Milwaukee and Julia Jorgensen of Kenosha. Three grandchildren also survive. Three sons died in infancy and a fourth, Adolph Jorgensen, died April 9, 1926, at the age of 43.

On the twentieth of February this year the deceased and his wife celebrated their golden wedding in an appropriate manner within their close circle of family and friends.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at one o'clock at the home in Kenosha with burial in the family plot at the Wilmot cemetery. Services are held for M. L. Hoffman.

Martin L. Hoffman, a resident of Hasset for many years, died at his home Sunday afternoon at 2:30 following an illness of two weeks duration due to old age. Mr. Hoffman was 89 at the time of his death.

Martin Hoffman was born in Burton township, McHenry county, Ill., on March 1st, 1839, his parents being pioneer farmers in that community. He was educated in the schools of that township and while still a young man left for California. There he served in many capacities, worked in the mines, drove a stage coach and supervised the building of the railroad between Carson City, Nevada and Virginia City. On his return to Wisconsin he was married to Anna Brower on Nov. 22, 1870, at the Kenosha Episcopal church. They settled on the Hoffman farm at Hasset where the family has since made its home.

Mr. Hoffman filled many public offices. He was a member of the Board of Supervisors from Randall Township for many years and was also chairman of the Board. He was a Republican and cast his first vote for Abraham Lincoln.

The deceased is survived by his wife, one son Martin and two granddaughters.

Funeral services were in charge of the Wilmot Lodge of Masons, of which the deceased was a member; and were held at his late home on Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, with burial in the family plot of the Wilmot cemetery.

and loaded up all they could haul of the most valuable articles carried in stock.

Dry Goods Shelves Looted

In the dry goods department they acquired goods valued between two and three thousand dollars. Here their aim evidently was to take the most valuable stuff first, and they cleaned out the shelves of silk goods, missing only a few bolts of the less expensive grades which were displayed with the cotton goods. All of the ladies' silk underwear was taken, as well as all of the silk scarfs and ties. In silk stockings they used discrimination, taking only those valued at $1.00 a pair or better. These they took from the boxes and stacked the empty boxes on the counter.

That the work was done by members of an experienced gang of thieves is evident from the way in which they explored the place taking whatever they wanted. In the grocery department they helped themselves to a considerable number of cans of peas, corn, tomatoes and possibly to other canned stuff in smaller amounts that could not be checked so readily. They acquired ten or fifteen pounds of bacon and ten pounds of creamery butter. A carton of cookies completed the groceries thus far missed.

Shotgun and Cartridges Taken

In the hardware department the robbers found use for a shotgun and cartridges as well as some drills. Whether or not anything else had been taken it is impossible to discover at present. Here evidences of haste were present. Shotguns were left lying on chairs and the floor, and some blank cartridges, of the sort used to give a loud report for celebrations were discarded as useless.

Evidently the thieves could not resist the opportunity to equip themselves. A box of size 40 men's underwear, some size 16 collars, and some neckties were the only things taken in the men's furnishing department.

Entering the store room they dumped a sack each of cornmeal, popcorn and rice onto the floor in a heap, apparently to get sacks in which to put the groceries they had taken.

Sheriff's Office Notified

Herman Cabbon discovered the robbery when he came down at six thirty this morning to open the store. As citizens of the town were about the streets until after one, an auto accident having caused an unusual amount of late evening activity, the robbery must have taken place sometime between 1:30 a. m. and dawn. Upon discovery of the loss, Sheriff Doolittle's office was called and Deputy Sheriff Brown came out at once.

Everything in the silk department is being left just as it was upon the departure of the thieves in order that experts, who are expected this afternoon, may check up on the finger prints. Some time during the course of the robbery one of the robbers evidently decided to look out on Main street and see if they

ADVERTISING THAT

LIVES LONGER

For the merchant in a comparatively large town who wishes to increase his sales among the people residing in the surrounding rural districts, the WEEKLY NEWS-PAPER is the ideal advertising medium.

Many farmers' homes are visited by but one newspaper, and almost invariably this newspaper is a WEEKLY.

The universal use of the automobile has widened the area from which the modern merchant may confidently expect to attract customers. The farmer can and does visit town more frequently than in the days when a horse and buggy were his only means of transportation.

If the farmer's wife sees attractive merchandise offerings in the advertisements contained in the popular WEEKLY NEWSPAPER, it is a matter of only a few minutes before were observed. In doing so he left his footprints in the fresh varnish put on the floor of the display window in the evening and left overnight to dry.

Williams Brothers will recover the stolen goods as they are now in the hands of the sheriff's office.

she can be shopping in town or city.

The merchant who advertises regularly in the WEEKLY NEWSPAPER circulating through the area from which he wishes to attract patronage is building up a larger, more prosperous business. He is making new friends constantly, and he has the satisfaction of knowing that his advertising is especially profitable because it is THE CHEAPEST FORM OF NEWS-PAPER ADVERTISING he can buy.

Advertising in the weekly newspaper LIVES LONGER—therefore it is the most profitable form of newspaper advertising.

The Antioch News is a WEEKLY NEWSPAPER.
